The world of drinks is diverse!
If you don't find exactly the drink
you are looking for in our menu,
we will be happy to advise you on alternative beers, wines, cocktails and non-alcoholic drinks.
We can of course also mix you a cocktail
just the way you want it.

ISLAY

Islay is the most famous of the Scottish whisky islands. She is often referred to as the queen among them. The majority of Islay's single malts have a wonderfully peaty-smoky, strong taste – aromas for which Islay whisky is so loved.

LOWLANDS

The single malts of the Lowlands are lighter than those of the Highlands and are strongly reminiscent of their Irish brothers in taste, as they are often distilled three times like them. They are generally very fresh and gentle, have floral, herb-scented or fruity aromas and taste dry in the finish.

IRISH WHISKEY

Irish whiskey gets its special taste mainly from the use of a mixture of unmalted and malted barley, which is not fired over a peat fire. In addition, Irish whiskey is distilled two or three times in the relatively large stills of whiskey distilleries
